CASE BACKGROUND:

Ardent and its affiliates operate healthcare facilities, including acute care hospitals. Nearly all of its revenue is generated from "net patient service revenue," which consists of revenue from general and specialty services like internal medicine, surgery, emergency care, and inpatient care. An important part of Ardent's operating performance is the collection of accounts receivable, primarily from Medicare, Medicaid, managed care payors, third-party payors, and patients.

The complaint alleges that, throughout the Class Period, Defendants made materially false and/or misleading statements, as well as failed to disclose material facts about the company's business, operations, and prospects. Specifically, Defendants misrepresented and/or failed to disclose that: (1) Ardent's accounts receivable framework allowed it to report higher accounts receivables, and delay recognizing losses on uncollectable accounts; (2) Ardent failed to maintain sufficient professional malpractice insurance; and (3) as a result of the foregoing, Defendants' statements about the company's business, operations, and prospects were materially false and misleading and/or lacked a reasonable basis at all relevant times.

THE LEAD PLAINTIFF PROCESS:

The Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 permits any investor who purchased or acquired Ardent securities during the Class Period to seek appointment as lead plaintiff in the Ardent class action lawsuit. A lead plaintiff is a representative party that acts on behalf of other class members in directing the litigation. In order to be appointed lead plaintiff, the Court must determine that the class member's claim is typical of the claims of other class members, and that the class member will adequately represent the class. Your ability to share in any recovery is not, however, affected by the decision whether or not to serve as a lead plaintiff. Filling out the online form above or communicating with any counsel is not necessary to participate or share in any recovery achieved in this case. Any member of the purported class may move the court to serve as a lead plaintiff through counsel of his/her choice, or may choose to do nothing and remain an inactive class member.
