COMPLAINT ALLEGATION SUMMARY:

On or around September 12, 2025, Gemini conducted its IPO, selling 15.2 million shares at $28.00 per share. In its Offering Documents issued in connection with the company's IPO, Gemini touted its cryptocurrency exchange as its "core . . . product" and stated that the company was founded to be a cryptocurrency exchange. The Offering Documents did not suggest that Gemini would deviate from its "core exchange product." Rather, they discussed additional product offerings as supplementing and helping to diversify Gemini's core product offerings. Furthermore, the Offering Documents described a prediction market and event contracts merely as some of Gemini's various product offerings, not as products that were likely to become the focus of the company's business. The Offering Documents also repeatedly represented that Gemini planned to expand the company's international operations.

The complaint alleges that, in the Offering Documents and throughout the Class Period, Defendants made materially false and/or misleading statements, as well as failed to disclose material facts about the company's business, operations, and prospects. Specifically, Defendants misrepresented and/or failed to disclose that: (1) Gemini had overstated the viability of its core business as a crypto platform; (2) Gemini had overstated the company's commitment to and/or the viability of growing its business through expanding its international operations; (3) accordingly, Gemini's post-IPO financial and business prospects were overstated; (4) all of the foregoing raised a non-speculative risk that Gemini was poised for an expensive and disruptive restructuring; and (5) as a result, Defendants' positive statements about the company's business, operations, and prospects were materially misleading and/or lacked a reasonable basis.

WHY DID GEMINI'S STOCK DROP?

On February 5, 2026, Gemini announced a corporate pivot to "Gemini 2.0", describing three dramatic changes to Gemini's operations: (1) Gemini's prediction market would be "more front and center in our experience"; (2) Gemini would reduce its workforce by 25%; and (3) Gemini would exit the United Kingdom, European Union, and Australian markets. On this news, Gemini's Class A common stock price fell $0.64 per share, or 8.72%, to close at $6.70 per share on February 5, 2026.

Then, on February 17, 2026, Gemini announced the departure of its Chief Operating Officer, Chief Financial Officer, and its Chief Legal Officer. Gemini also released preliminary unaudited estimates of its full year 2025 financial results, which revealed an approximate 40% increase in the company's operating expenses. On this news, Gemini's Class A common stock price fell $0.97 per share, or 12.9%, to close at $6.585 per share on February 17, 2026.

At the time the complaint was filed, Gemini's Class A common stock traded at $5.96 per share, a 78.7% decline from the company's $28.00 per share IPO price.

THE LEAD PLAINTIFF PROCESS:

The Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 permits any investor who purchased or acquired Gemini Class A common stock and/or securities during the Class Period to seek appointment as lead plaintiff in the Gemini class action lawsuit. A lead plaintiff is a representative party that acts on behalf of other class members in directing the litigation. In order to be appointed lead plaintiff, the Court must determine that the class member's claim is typical of the claims of other class members, and that the class member will adequately represent the class. Your ability to share in any recovery is not, however, affected by the decision whether or not to serve as a lead plaintiff. Filling out the online form above or communicating with any counsel is not necessary to participate or share in any recovery achieved in this case. Any member of the purported class may move the
