The monday.com Ltd. class action lawsuit was filed on behalf of those who purchased or otherwise acquired monday.com Ltd. ("monday") (NASDAQ: MNDY) common stock between September 17, 2025 and February 6, 2026, inclusive (the "Class Period"). Captioned Potter v. monday.com Ltd., No. 26-cv-01956 (S.D.N.Y.), the monday class action lawsuit alleges that monday and/or certain of its officers and/or directors violated federal securities laws by making false or misleading statements and/or omitted to disclose material information.

If you lost money as a result of your monday investment and want to find out more about this action and your rights, fill out the form on this page or contact attorney Jonathan Najj, Esq. of KTMC by calling (484) 270-1453 or via e-mail at info@ktmc.com. Lead plaintiff motions must be filed with the court no later than May 11, 2026.

COMPLAINT ALLEGATION SUMMARY:

monday is in the business of developing software applications, and offers a cloud-based Work Operating System, which is a modular platform that allows users to build custom workflow and management applications.

The complaint alleges that, throughout the Class Period, Defendants made materially false and/or misleading statements, as well as failed to disclose material facts about the company's business, operations, and prospects. Specifically, Defendants misrepresented and/or failed to disclose that: (1) new customer growth was decelerating, and the company was experiencing weak expansion within existing accounts; (2) monday's AI investments were inadequate as durable drivers of long-term growth; and (3) as a result of the foregoing, Defendants' statements about the company's business, operations, and prospects were materially false and misleading and/or lacked a reasonable basis at all relevant times.

WHY DID MONDAY'S STOCK DROP?

On February 9, 2026, monday announced that it was lowering its revenue guidance, shifting away from its long-term target of $1.8 billion for 2027. On this news, monday's stock price fell 21%.

THE LEAD PLAINTIFF PROCESS:

The Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 permits any investor who purchased or acquired monday common stock during the Class Period to seek appointment as lead plaintiff in the monday class action lawsuit. A lead plaintiff is a representative party that acts on behalf of other class members in directing the litigation. In order to be appointed lead plaintiff, the Court must determine that the class member's claim is typical of the claims of other class members, and that the class member will adequately represent the class. Your ability to share in any recovery is not, however, affected by the decision whether or not to serve as a lead plaintiff. Filling out the online form above or communicating with any counsel is not necessary to participate or share in any recovery achieved in this case. Any member of the purported class may move the court to serve as a lead plaintiff through counsel of his/her choice, or may choose to do nothing and remain an inactive class member.
