The PayPal Holdings, Inc. securities fraud class action lawsuits are filed on behalf of those who purchased or otherwise acquired PayPal Holdings, Inc. ("PayPal") (NASDAQ: PYPL) common stock between February 8, 2024, and February 2, 2026, inclusive (the "Class Period"). The PayPal class action lawsuits allege that PayPal and/or certain of its officers and/or directors violated federal securities laws by making false or misleading statements and/or omitted to disclose material information.

If you experienced losses as a result of your PayPal investment and want to find out more about this action and your rights, fill out the form on this page or contact attorney Jonathan Naji, Esq. of KTMC by calling (484) 270-1453 or via e-mail at info@ktmc.com. Lead plaintiff motions must be filed with the court no later than April 20, 2026.

COMPLAINTS ALLEGATION SUMMARY:

The complaints allege that, throughout the Class Period, Defendants made materially false and/or misleading statements, as well as failed to disclose material adverse facts about PayPal's business and operations. Specifically, Defendants created the false impression that they possessed reliable information pertaining to PayPal's projected revenue outlook and anticipated growth while also minimizing risk from seasonality and macroeconomic fluctuations. In truth, PayPal's optimistic plan for growth through various initiatives to bolster PayPal's Branded Checkout offerings fell short of reality as the 2027 targets were not achievable under the tenure of PayPal's CEO and required both an unrealistically stable consumer landscape and strong execution with clear direction from PayPal and its management.

WHY DID PAYPAL'S STOCK DROP?

On February 3, 2026, PayPal announced a surprise leadership change replacing the company's CEO. The leadership change coincided with PayPal's fourth quarter and full year 2025 earnings report, wherein PayPal missed consensus estimates for both revenue and profit. On this news, PayPal's stock price fell $10.63, or 20.3%, to close at $41.70 per share on February 3, 2026.

THE LEAD PLAINTIFF PROCESS:
The Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 permits any investor who purchased or acquired PayPal common stock during the Class Period to seek appointment as lead plaintiff in the PayPal class action lawsuits. A lead plaintiff is a representative party that acts on behalf of other class members in directing the litigation. In order to be appointed lead plaintiff, the Court must determine that the class member's claim is typical of the claims of other class members, and that the class member will adequately represent the class. Your ability to share in any recovery is not, however, affected by the decision whether or not to serve as a lead plaintiff. Filling out the online form above or communicating with any counsel is not necessary to participate or share in any recovery achieved in this case. Any member of the purported class may move the court to serve as a lead plaintiff through counsel of his/her choice, or may choose to do nothing and remain an inactive class member.
